Letter from the Executive Director

Dear Friends,

The year 2024–25 has been a powerful example of collective responsibility and social commitment for Bundelkhand Sewa Sansthan. We take pride in the progress we have made during this period—promoting children’s education, expanding adult literacy, advancing water conservation, protecting the environment, improving cleanliness, and supporting the implementation of government welfare schemes at the grassroots level.

With your support, we have not only been able to provide quality education to children and youth but also opportunities for adults to achieve literacy, empowerment, and self-reliance. At the same time, we carried out extensive awareness campaigns on clean water, sanitation, and environmental protection. We also connected communities with government programs—such as the Swachh Bharat Mission, Jal Jeevan Mission, education and health initiatives, and skill development schemes—ensuring that families experienced lasting benefits and an improved quality of life.

Looking ahead, Bundelkhand Sewa Sansthan is committed to further expanding these efforts in 2025–26 and beyond—so that every child receives an education, every adult becomes literate, every community lives in a clean and healthy environment, and every citizen benefits fully from government programs that foster dignity and self-reliance.

We are deeply grateful to our staff, volunteers, partners, and well-wishers. Your trust and support inspire us to continue working with dedication to build a brighter, cleaner, and more sustainable future for generations to come.

With warm regards,

Reporting Period	1 st August 2024 to 31 March 2025
Number of targeted beneficiaries as per MOU vs number of achieved beneficiaries	<ul style="list-style-type: none">- Target beneficiaries -15000- Achieved beneficiaries – 5835

1. Project Description and Background

The Adult Literacy Program aims to provide basic literacy and numeracy skills to women, men, and youth above 15 years of age who have not had the opportunity to learn reading, writing, or simple arithmetic used in daily life. The program seeks to empower these individuals with essential functional education, thereby enhancing their participation in social and economic activities.

The Central and State Governments have implemented several adult literacy initiatives over the years. Building upon this vision, the Shiv Nadar Foundation has been successfully implementing the Adult Literacy Program for many years. Continuing this endeavor, the Foundation, in partnership with Bundelkhand Seva Sansthan (BSS), is currently implementing the program in the Madawara Block of Lalitpur District, Uttar Pradesh, for the period August 2023 to 2025.

2. Project Geographical Area and Survey Data

Madawara Block has been identified as an “Aspirational and Untouched Block” by NITI Aayog due to its backward socio-economic conditions.

According to Census 2011, Madawara Block of Lalitpur District has an overall illiteracy rate of 49.90%, with female illiteracy at 60.04% and male illiteracy at 40.66%.

Given the high level of educational deprivation in the region—both in adult and primary education—the need for literacy interventions is significant. With the support of the Shiv Nadar Foundation, Bundelkhand Seva Sansthan has so far made 20 out of 54 villages functionally literate. The organization continues to operate in the remaining villages and is in the process of preparing an expansion plan to cover 20 additional villages under the next phase for effective implementation.

3. Project Locations and Total Beneficiaries

Under the ongoing Adult Literacy Program supported by the Shiv Nadar Foundation, Bundelkhand Seva Sansthan is actively working in Madawara Block, one of the most underdeveloped and aspirational regions of Lalitpur District. To date, a total of 5,835 learners (adults and youth) have been successfully enrolled and trained under the program, significantly contributing to the improvement of literacy levels in the block.

1. Beneficiaries (target group-wise details)

Target group - Every person above 15 years of age who could not complete his education due to any reason, rural women, farmers, young men, young women and teenagers, housewives, Scheduled tribes ,Scheduled cast etc.	Total volunteer: Total number of batches: 389 (56+273+60) Total number of complete batches: 389 Total number of cycles: 03 (2024 TO 2025)
Total beneficiaries reached during the reporting period Direct – Learner AND JS Indirect – Family and community members Male Learner: 1649 Female Learner: 4186	Total Direct Beneficiaries: 5835 Total number of beneficiaries (Male + female): 5835

2. Key Achievements

During the implementation of our Adult Literacy Program, several significant milestones were achieved:

(A) Over the past years, our initiatives have yielded tangible improvements in literacy and awareness across the target communities.

(B) Through the program, we gained valuable insights into the educational landscape of our area and successfully reached individuals above 15 years of age who were eager to learn and become literate despite earlier missed opportunities.

(C) The literacy rate in the intervention areas has shown a notable increase, accompanied by a growing sense of awareness among individuals and communities.

(D) Women, in particular, have become more conscious of their rights and their active role in social and economic development.

(E) Visible positive changes have been observed in the daily lives of women, men, farmers, and youth. Their communication skills, lifestyle, and awareness regarding their community, society, village, and nation have improved significantly.

(F) Special progress has been made among marginalized groups such as the Sahariya (Gond) community, where access to educational resources was previously very limited.

(G) Through participation in the program, individuals have become capable of accessing various opportunities in education, healthcare, legal services, cooperatives, government and non-government schemes, employment, and community development.

3. Activities and Outcomes

The implementation of the Adult Literacy Program has led to transformative outcomes in the participating villages. Many individuals who were previously unable to even sign their names can now do so confidently. This simple yet empowering skill has enabled them to independently carry out essential tasks such as depositing and withdrawing money from banks.

The program has not only improved literacy but also enhanced overall awareness among community members about their rights and social responsibilities. Encouragingly, the example set by adult learners has inspired their children to attend school regularly, fostering a culture of education within families.

Participation in the program has also contributed to behavioral changes — several beneficiaries have voluntarily given up smoking, alcohol, and tobacco consumption. As a result, the literacy rate and quality of life in the region have both improved.

The initiative has received appreciation from village heads and administrative officials for its measurable impact.

Under the Shiksha Plus Program, both women and men have gained better employment opportunities. By joining self-help groups (SHGs) and other support networks, they are now able to access benefits from government and non-government schemes such as MGNREGA, personal loans, and skill-based employment. The program has also encouraged small-scale entrepreneurship — beneficiaries are now engaged in income-generating activities like organic farming, bamboo product manufacturing, pickle and ghee production, and pulse processing.

Furthermore, participants have acquired essential numeracy skills such as addition, subtraction, multiplication, and practical financial literacy. This has enabled women, in particular, to manage their group accounts effectively and calculate their wages accurately. Earlier, due to limited mathematical knowledge, many faced underpayment; now they can compute their earnings correctly and claim their rightful dues.

Importantly, with improved literacy, individuals no longer depend on intermediaries to handle bank transactions — saving both money and time.

Overall, the Shiksha Plus Program has significantly contributed to economic empowerment, enhanced self-reliance, and holistic community development.

- About Baseline Midline End line study conducted – This is a kind of test, we use it thrice to test the initial, middle and end conditions of the learner. Through this test, the initial educational level of the learner is tested and whatever improvement has taken place in their condition during our 91 days program, at the end, we again check their status by using this test as an endline. On the basis of this test, we can clearly see the actual educational status of the learner, in which the learner tries from the initial race itself and by the time he reaches the end, completes the test by solving maximum number of questions. This test is mandatory for every learner and till now, this test has been completed with all the people whom we have made literate.
- About Assessment study - Assessment refers to 6 more tests between baseline and endline(BME) of 91 days teaching plan of our learner through which separate tests are conducted for a minimum of 9 days and a maximum of 12 days during the assessment cycle, through this test we find out how much percentage of the syllabus used in that cycle, this test is conducted six times, each time it is conducted with a question of 10 marks, in which we see that the learners show their understanding of the syllabus by completing this test under the supervision of the jan shikshak.

- About the MIS indicator wise brief study conducted- (MIS) Management Information System is the form through which we take the basic information of our learner including his name, educational status, income, work status and personal information. This form is submitted online by each of our Jan Shikshak on the Shiksha Drishti app. On the basis of this, it is decided who is studying in the batch. Each batch of 15-15 people is filled. On the basis of this, we are able to ensure which villages are complete and which people need to be worked with.

3. Challenges

1. Most learners in the area are engaged in agricultural activities, which limits the time they can devote to attending literacy sessions.
2. Many housewives are delayed or unable to attend due to household responsibilities and lack of free time.
3. Some learners expect additional incentives such as financial assistance or employment opportunities during the program.
4. Due to limited livelihood opportunities in the region, several learners discontinue the program midway and migrate elsewhere for work.
5. A general lack of awareness about the importance of education prevents some community members from participating in literacy classes.

4. Lessons Learned

1. The program revealed that while people are eager to become literate, family and social responsibilities often prevent them from committing adequate time to learning.
2. It was observed that learners also lack awareness on issues such as health, hygiene, and nutrition, which affects their overall well-being.
3. Since most community members depend on agriculture, the lack of access to accurate and practical agricultural knowledge limits productivity and crop quality.
4. Through regular engagement in the field, the program team gained valuable insights into local issues such as employment, migration, literacy levels, demographic patterns, voter awareness, and the overall socio-geographical conditions of the villages. This interaction also provided an opportunity for deeper understanding and contextual learning.

Water Harvesting & Agriculture Based Livelihood Project (WHALP)

Project Brief: -

The Bundelkhand region has long been facing severe water scarcity, irregular rainfall, frequent droughts, and declining soil fertility. Repeated drought cycles, limited water sources, and inadequate irrigation facilities have resulted in reduced farm productivity, lower income for farmers, and limited livelihood opportunities for agriculture-dependent families. These challenging conditions highlight the urgent need for comprehensive water conservation measures, agricultural improvement, and enhanced livelihood opportunities.

The Water Harvesting & Agriculture Based Livelihood Project aims to strengthen water security and enhance agriculture-based livelihoods for rural and marginalized communities. The project focuses on sustainable water conservation, climate-resilient farming, and community-driven natural resource management to ensure long-term socio-economic development. In Bundelkhand's Lalitpur district, specifically in the aspirational block Madawara, Bundelkhand Sewa Sansthan is implementing these activities effectively on the ground. Additionally, awareness on water and environmental conservation is being promoted through engaging community-based interventions such as kathputli (puppet) shows.

Objectives

1. Improve water availability through scientific and community-led water harvesting interventions.
2. Enhance agricultural productivity using climate-resilient techniques and soil health improvement.
3. Promote diversified livelihood options linked with agriculture, horticulture, and allied sectors.
4. Strengthen community institutions to sustainably manage water resources.
5. Encourage eco-friendly and cost-efficient conservation practices.

Key Activities

- Tank Restoration: Desiltation, embankment strengthening, and inlet–outlet repair to improve water storage capacity.
- Nala Khudai (Channel Deepening): Deepening and widening of drainage channels to increase water flow and groundwater recharge.
- Nadi Punarjivan (River Rejuvenation): Desiltation, obstruction removal, and ecological restoration of seasonal/perennial rivers.
- Eco-friendly Low-Cost Structures (Doha Model): Development of low-cost, small-scale groundwater recharge structures based on the Doha Modal

- Fruit Tree Plantation (Horticulture Development): Plantation of mango, guava, lemon, custard apple, moringa, and other climate-resilient fruit species to increase long-term income and green cover.
- Climate-Smart Agriculture: Training in improved seeds, organic manure, mulching, composting, and soil health management.
- Crop Diversification & Vegetable Cultivation: Promotion of seasonal vegetables and nutrition gardens.
- Government Convergence: Linking communities with agriculture, horticulture, and water-related schemes for financial and technical support.
- Water & Environmental Conservation Awareness: Community-based awareness activities—such as kathputli (puppet) shows—are being conducted to promote behavioural change and strengthen understanding of water and environmental conservation.

Expected Outcomes

- Enhanced water availability and groundwater recharge.
- Revitalization of traditional and natural water systems.
- Increased agricultural and horticultural productivity.
- Long-term income generation through fruit orchards and diversified farming.
- Strong and capable community institutions for sustainable resource management.
- Improved environmental balance and reduction in soil erosion.

Impact

The project builds a climate-resilient rural ecosystem through integrated water conservation and agriculture-based livelihood promotion. It ensures water security, increases farmer income, expands green cover, and strengthens ecological sustainability for future generations.
